Quill Creative Studio's Joshua Tyner Named a GDUSA "Person to Watch in 2024"

OSHKOSH, Wisc. — February 28, 2024 — Quill Creative Studio is thrilled to announce that Senior Partner and Creative Director, Joshua Tyner, has been named a "Person to Watch in 2024" by GDUSA magazine. This prestigious recognition highlights individuals who are shaping the future of design and marketing.

Tyner joins a distinguished group of industry leaders recognized for their innovation, creativity, and leadership. His inclusion reflects Quill Creative Studio's commitment to pushing boundaries and delivering impactful work for their clients.

"We are incredibly proud of Joshua and his well-deserved recognition," said Arden Helm, Senior Art Director. "His dedication to design excellence and strategic thinking has played a key role in shaping Quill Creative Studio into the award-winning agency it is today."

Tyner's vision and leadership have been instrumental in developing innovative branding solutions for clients across a wide range of industries. He is a passionate advocate for the power of design to connect with audiences on an emotional level and build lasting relationships.

"At Quill Creative," says Tyner, "we are excited about what the future holds. Brands are increasingly seeking to tell their stories with intent and build relationships based on shared values. This shift requires a collaborative approach, and we're thrilled to be designing unique brand systems that permeate throughout organizations, from the ground up."

Tyner's feature in GDUSA magazine underscores Quill Creative Studio's position as a leading force in the creative industry. The agency's commitment to collaboration, innovation, and strategic thinking ensures they are well-positioned to help brands succeed in today's ever-evolving landscape.
